- At the beginning or end of class each day, take about 5-8 minutes to quickly review the previous night's homework and clarify any questions.
- Students use the "My Progress" section to keep track of how they are doing, and it helps hold them accountable for their own learning.
- On Friday, use the included weekly quizzes to track student progress and see where students need further instruction.

How to use this resource in CLASS (morning work, warm ups, etc.)

- Each day, students complete just one column (Monday through Thursday).
- When time allows, take about 5-8 minutes to review that day's work. This gives students time to monitor their own progress and to ask questions.
- On Friday, give the included weekly quiz. This is the perfect time to assess your students and see where they still need help.

What Teachers are Saying...

I've always stuck with my bellwork activities but I wanted something new and I'm so glad I found these. The students are enjoying the layout. The material is thorough in content and very clear. The spiral arrangement of questions reinforces topics very well. I'm impressed and glad I made the purchase! ~ Melissa G.

WONDERFUL Resource! My partner teacher and I put homework on the back of our Monday Note. We have both purchased this bundle (math and language). The quality is awesome and the students stay engaged. The files are very well organized and I am able to find the skill that I need really quickly. I love that they are editable!! ~Bria R.

My students love doing these sheets as a starter. They have helped me assess where I need to go back a review or reteach before the end of the year testing comes about. Thank you!
~ Robin P.

I wish I bought this at the beginning of the school year! I am really slacking in addressing my language standards because there is just too much else going on! This is exactly what I needed to get me on track! THE BEST FEATURE IS THAT IT IS EDITABLE!!!! LOVE THAT!!!!
~Ferociously Fifth

My students are getting valuable practice and review, and the parents love the simple format. Thanks for creating this product, and for making the editable version!!
